

Contents

Lesson 1:

- Slide 2: Frayer, "Introduction"
- Slide 3: Give One, Get One

Lesson 2:

- Slide 4: Frayer, "Myth"
- Slide 5: Give One, Get One

Lesson 3:

- Slide 6: Frayer, "Historiography"
- Slide 7: Prediction

Definition	Quote
The formal presentation of one to another	"History is a kind of introduction to more interesting people than we can possibly meet in our restricted lives; let us not neglect the opportunity." Dexter Perkins, President of the American Historical Association, 1956.
Examples/Characteristics	Question

Introduction

My understanding: 4 3 2 1

Give One

Get One

PROMPT:

1. What is your name?
2. Answer one question:
 - a. History of your name
 - b. Best/Worst Part of Summer
 - c. Bucket List Destination
3. Something you have in common

MY ANSWER:

1.
2.

3.

1.
2.

3.

1.
2.

3.

1.
2.

3.

1.
2.

3.

1.
2.

3.

1.
2.

3.

1.
2.

3.

1.
2.

3.

Definition	Question
A false belief or idea that often is expressed through storytelling Examples	Use in a Sentence

Myth

My understanding: 4 3 2 1

Give One

INSTRUCTIONS:

1. Write their name.
Listen to their statements and guess the lie.
2. Write one of their truths
3. Circle the  if you are correct or the  if you are incorrect.

MY STATEMENTS:

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.

Get One

- 1.
- 2.

- 1.
- 2.

- 1.
- 2.

- 1.
- 2.

- 1.
- 2.

- 1.
- 2.

- 1.
- 2.

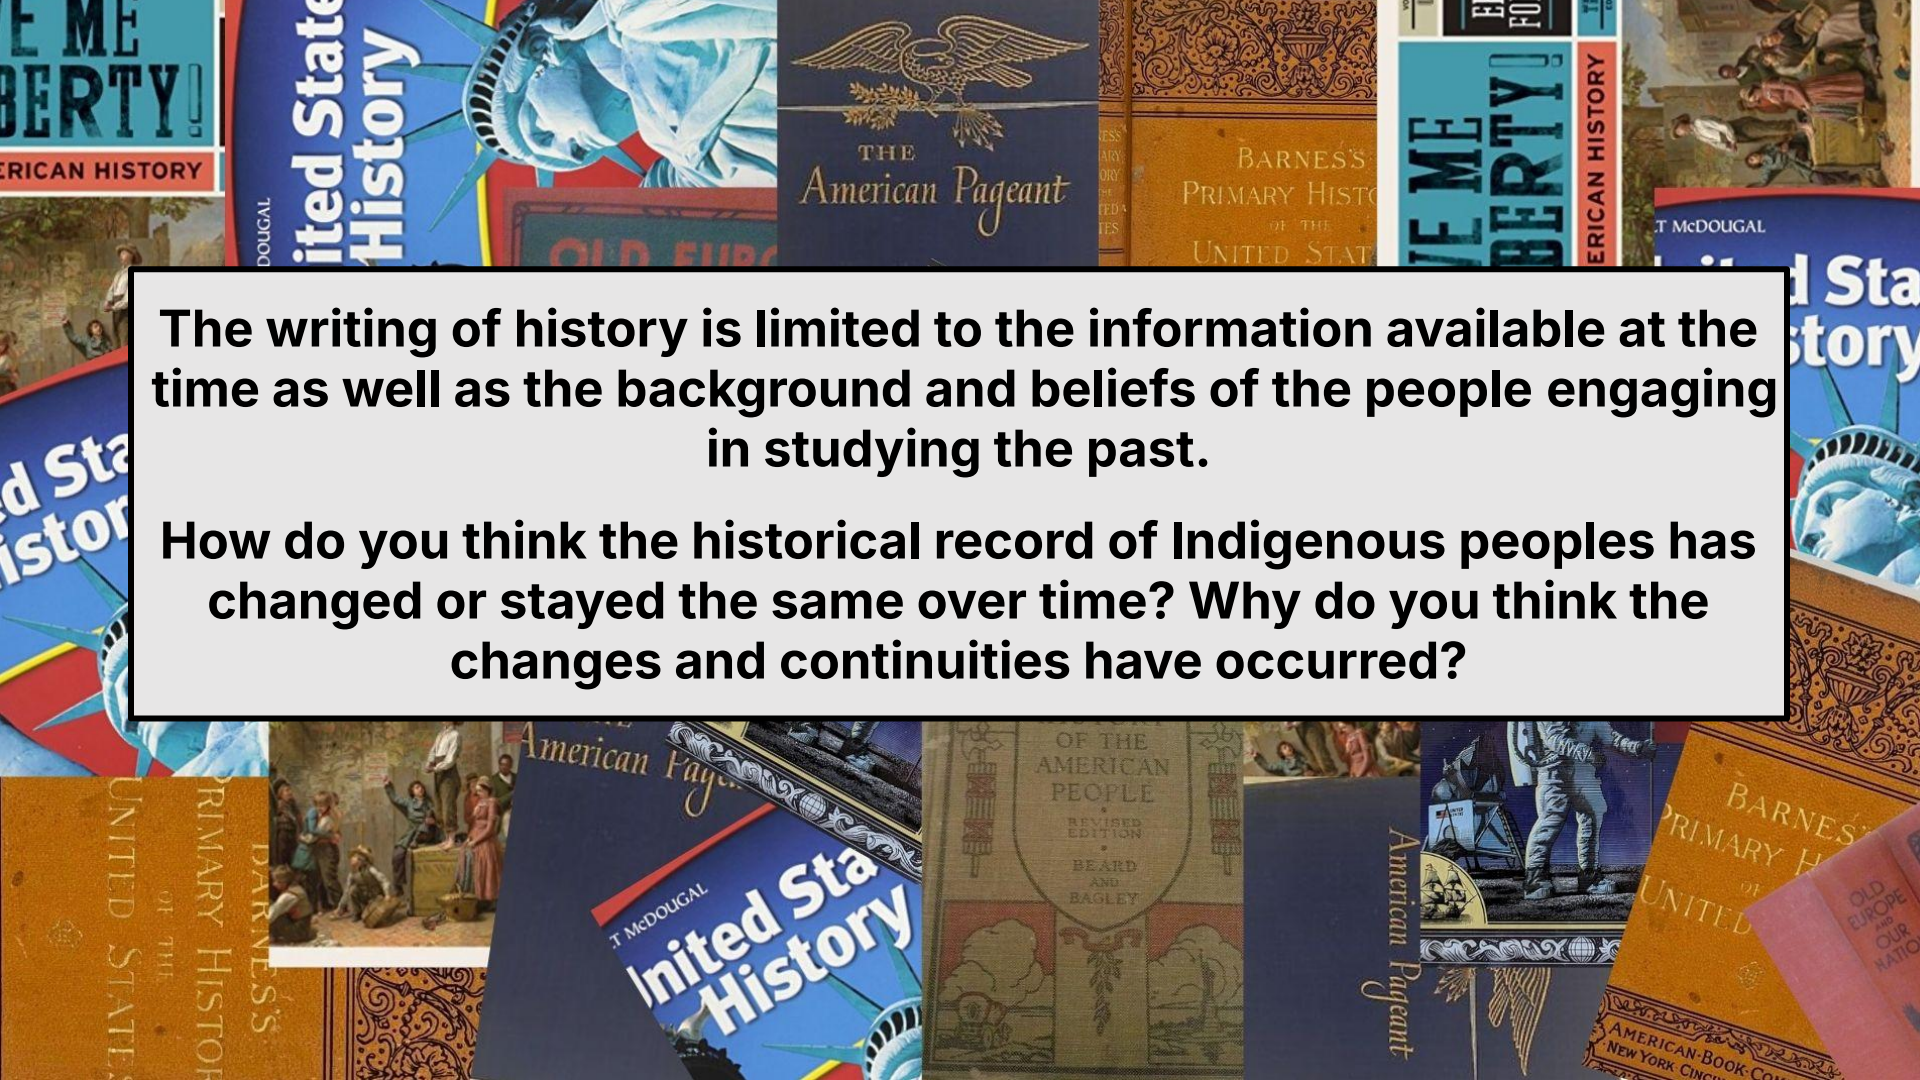

- 1.
- 2.

- 1.
- 2.

Definition	Quote
The history of history; Studying historiography means studying the changing interpretations of the past over time	"The writing of history reflects the interests, predilections, and even prejudices of a given generation." - John Hope Franklin (1915-2009), American historian
Historiography My understanding: 4 3 2 1 Question
Illustration

The writing of history is limited to the information available at the time as well as the background and beliefs of the people engaging in studying the past.

How do you think the historical record of Indigenous peoples has changed or stayed the same over time? Why do you think the changes and continuities have occurred?

Definition	Quote
The formal presentation of one to another	"History is a kind of introduction to more interesting people than we can possibly meet in our restricted lives; let us not neglect the opportunity." Dexter Perkins, President of the American Historical Association, 1956.
● Name ● Background Information ● Handshake	How do introductions differ in various regions or countries?
Examples/Characteristics	Question

Introduction

My understanding: 4 3 2 1

Definition	Question
A false belief or idea that often is expressed through storytelling Myth My understanding: 4 3 2 1 ● Greek Mythology ● Lost City of Atlantis ● Fountain of Youth	Why do myths emerge? The myth of the Loch Ness monster attracts visitors to Scotland. Use in a Sentence
Examples

Definition

The history of history;
Studying historiography means studying the changing interpretations of the past
over time

Quote

"The writing of history reflects the interests, predilections, and even prejudices of a given generation."
- John Hope Franklin (1915-2009),
American historian

Historiography

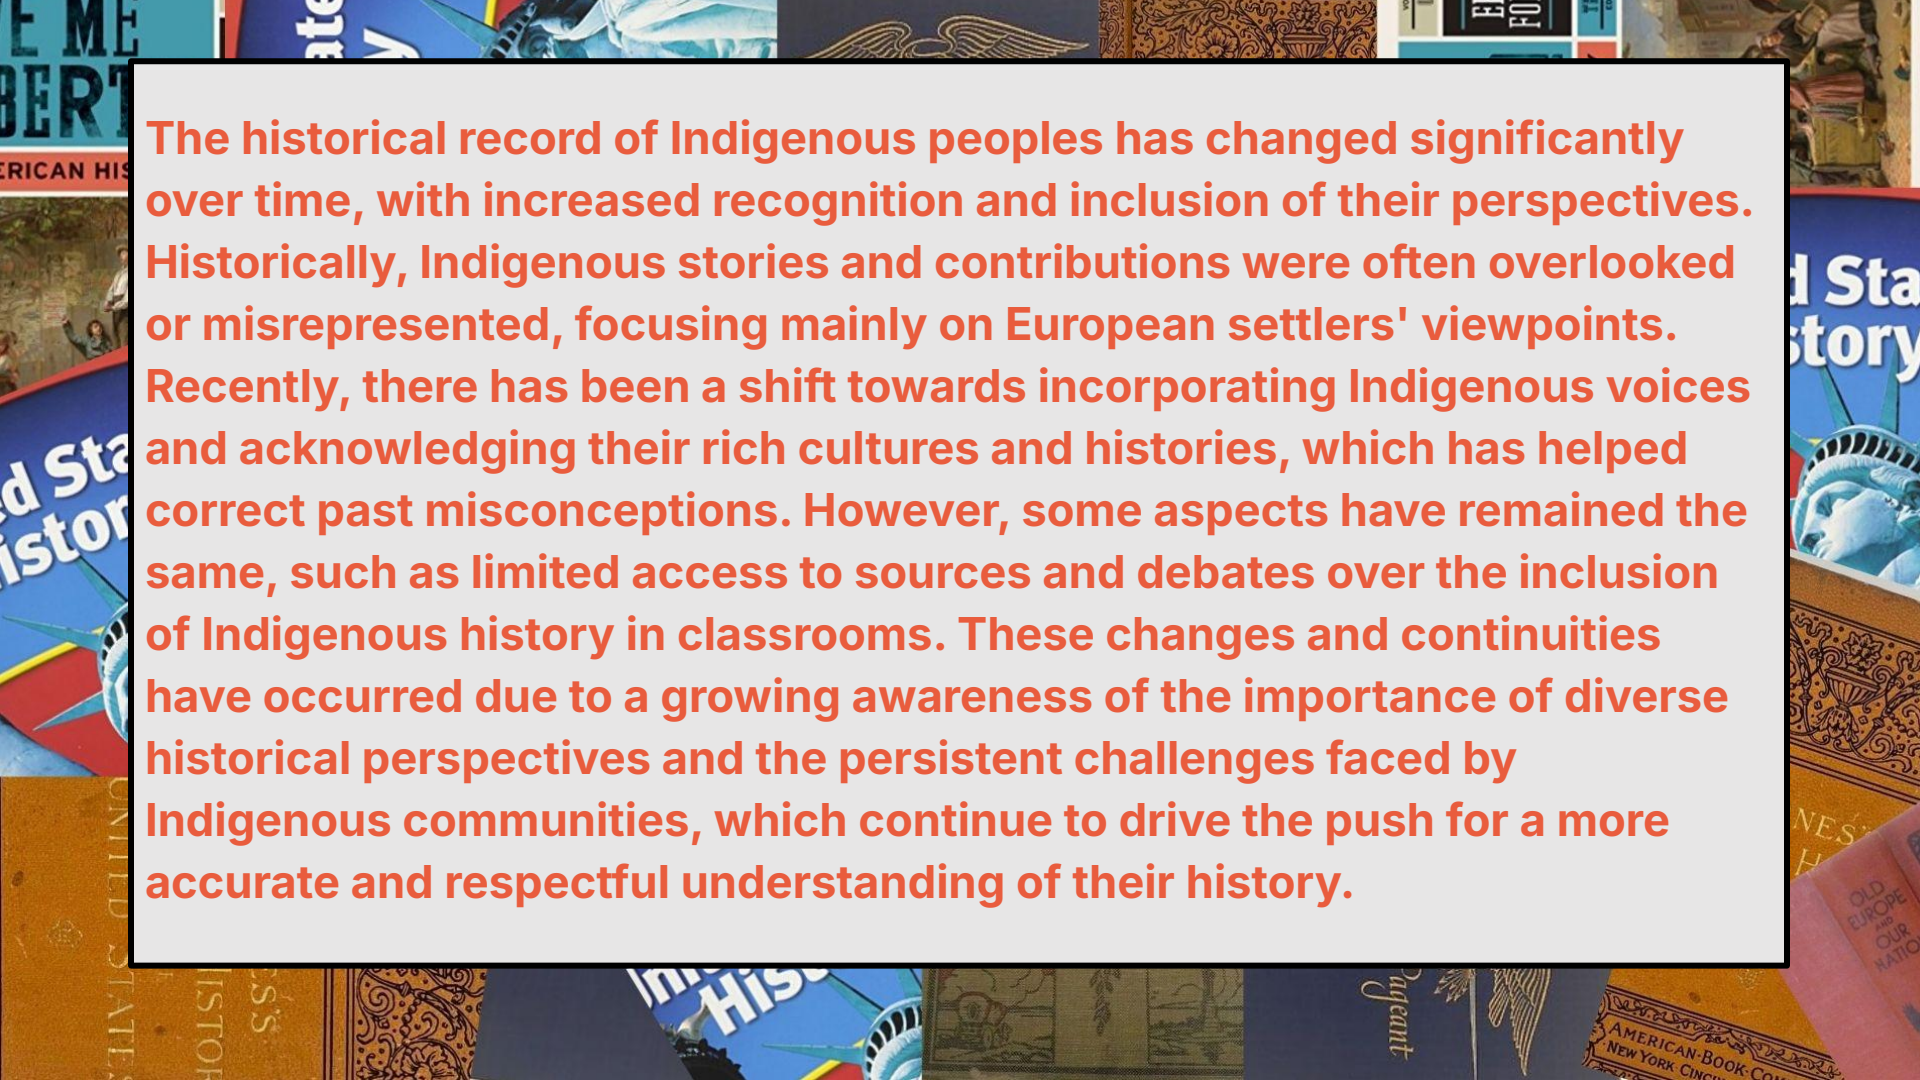

My understanding: 4 3 2 1

How is historiography different than history?

Question

Illustration

The historical record of Indigenous peoples has changed significantly over time, with increased recognition and inclusion of their perspectives. Historically, Indigenous stories and contributions were often overlooked or misrepresented, focusing mainly on European settlers' viewpoints. Recently, there has been a shift towards incorporating Indigenous voices and acknowledging their rich cultures and histories, which has helped correct past misconceptions. However, some aspects have remained the same, such as limited access to sources and debates over the inclusion of Indigenous history in classrooms. These changes and continuities have occurred due to a growing awareness of the importance of diverse historical perspectives and the persistent challenges faced by Indigenous communities, which continue to drive the push for a more accurate and respectful understanding of their history.